

Metropolia University of Applied Sciences Framework for evaluation: Final project (Bachelor's)

Targets of assessment	Professional competence and development <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • significance for the profession and working life • utilisation of professional knowledge • development and self-development of professional competence • applicability in professional life and working life 	The methods and work procedures used, and results obtained <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • definition of purpose, targets and research or development items • methodological competence • description of outcomes and product • progress and management of the final project process • reliability • ethics 	Communication and presentation <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • structure and form • fluency of language • critical, analytical and reflective nature of communication • argumentation and referencing
Level of competence	The student can	The student can	The student can
Excellent 5	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • plan and scope the subject matter extremely well • select a subject that is extremely significant, topical and demanding in the profession and working life • use their professional knowledge base excellently for the purposes of the final project • develop professional expertise in their field excellently • create in the final project excellent new and significant solutions in the field and working life 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • define excellently the purpose, targets and research or development items of the final project • apply work procedures and methods excellently • combine excellently the chosen procedures and working methods with regard to the final project targets • report excellently on the applicability of the results/product with regard to other situations and environments • work excellently in accordance with research and development and professional ethics principles • assess excellently the work's reliability, ethical aspects and the process • work extremely responsibly, independently and in cooperation with others, adhering to any agreed issues and timetables 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • produce an excellently final project, the structure and form of which are in line with its purpose, targets and research or development items • use excellently the appropriate professional language in the final project • communicate excellently about the final project and its results to the target groups • provide excellent grounds for and an assessment of the professional actions, solutions and results • apply evidence-based source material excellently • follows excellently the instructions regarding referencing
Good 4–3	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • plan and scope the subject matter well • select a subject that is quite significant, topical and demanding in the profession and working life 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • define well the purpose, targets and research or development items of the final project • apply work procedures and methods well 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • produce a good final project, the structure and form of which are in line with its purpose, targets and research or development items

	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • use their professional knowledge base well for the purposes of the final project • develop professional expertise in their field well • create in the final project good new and significant solutions in the field and working life 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • combine well the chosen procedures and working methods with regard to the final project targets • report the results/product well • report well on the applicability of the results/product with regard to other situations and environments • work well in accordance with research and development and professional ethics principles • assess well the work's reliability, ethical aspects and the process • work very responsibly, independently and in cooperation with others, adhering to any agreed issues and timetables 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • use well the appropriate professional language in the final project • communicate well about the final project and its results to the target groups • provide good grounds for and an assessment of the professional actions, solutions and results • apply evidence-based source material well • follows well the instructions regarding referencing
Satisfactory 2–1 or pass	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • plan and scope the subject matter satisfactorily • select a subject that is somewhat significant and topical in the profession and working life • use their professional knowledge base satisfactorily for the purposes of the final project • develop professional expertise in their field satisfactorily • create in the final project satisfactory new and significant solutions in the field and working life 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • define satisfactorily the purpose, targets and research or development items of the final project • apply work procedures and methods satisfactorily • combine satisfactorily the chosen procedures and working methods with regard to the final project targets • report the results/product satisfactorily • report satisfactorily on the applicability of the results/product with regard to other situations and environments • work satisfactorily in accordance with research and development and professional ethics principles • assess satisfactorily the work's reliability, ethical aspects and the process • work reasonably responsibly, independently and in cooperation with others, adhering to any agreed issues and timetables 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • produce a satisfactory final project, the structure and form of which are in line with its purpose, targets and research or development items • use satisfactorily the appropriate professional language in the final project • communicate satisfactorily about the final project and its results to the target groups • provide satisfactory grounds for and an assessment of the professional actions, solutions and results • apply evidence-based source material satisfactorily • follows satisfactorily the instructions regarding referencing

Fail	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • planning and scoping the subject matter is insufficient • the subject is not extensive enough in the profession and working life • the professional knowledge base is insufficient as the basis of the final project • develop insufficiently professional expertise in their field • the final project does not create enough new and significant solutions in the field and working life 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the purpose, targets and research or development items of the final project are not defined well enough • the work procedures and methods are not applied well enough • the chosen procedures and working methods are not well enough combined with regard to the final project targets • the results/product are not reported well enough • reporting on the applicability of the results/product with regard to other situations and environments is insufficient • work is insufficient in terms of the research and development and professional ethics principles • the work's reliability, ethical aspects and the process are insufficient • work does not meet the requirements in terms of cooperation with others or adherence to any agreed issues and timetables 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • the final project's structure and form are insufficient in terms of its purpose, targets and research or development items • the final project's professional language is insufficient • communication about the final project and its results to the target groups is insufficient • insufficient grounds are provided on the professional actions, solutions and results • evidence-based source material is insufficiently applied • instructions regarding referencing are followed insufficiently
--------------------	--	---	---